Hinsdale may opt out of ComEd system

Hinsdale's village board, dissatisfied with the state of ComEd's west suburban electric grid, is slated to vote Tuesday on a plan to create a municipal electric utility, similar to ones in Naperville, St. Charles, Batavia and Winnetka. A "yes" vote would set the stage for a referendum in April. ComEd plans to respond Monday to a series of village demands on improving reliability. "We are optimistic we can address their concerns," a rep says.
